WELCOME

TO THE 2024 CBW MEDIA PACK

As we've done throughout our long history of reporting on and supporting all aspects of the coach and bus sectors, Coach & Bus Week continues to provide unrivalled editorial content every week to its core subscriber base via its printed and digital channels. Our subscribers include senior industry directors, chief executives and managers from major national groups, as well as regional and municipal operators, county councils and proprietors of small to medium operations, not to mention suppliers, manufacturers and others connected with the industry.

As the only paid-for and weekly magazine in the industry, we strive to deliver new, interesting, thought-provoking and cutting edge content every week. By offering our clients weekly advertising which is viewed by paying readers, your marketing campaigns are guaranteed the best possible exposure. At CBW we take pride in working closely with our advertisers to ensure their campaign goals are met.

The following pages outline the different advertising opportunities available. We are happy to adapt our packages and create bespoke opportunities which best suit your campaigns. Make sure to contact your account manager about any campaigns, launches or product news so we can provide you with the best marketing support.

Our dedicated editorial team are happy to visit you for interviews, tours and product demonstrations, providing them further opportunity to write detailed features. CBW also plans to attend as many industry events as possible during the year, from conferences and launches to major trade shows, which offer great opportunities to engage with our sales, advertising and editorial team to help us to help you. Your account manager will keep you informed of any special issues, including those focusing on upcoming industry events.

Once you have had a chance to review our range of advertisement opportunities, please make sure to get in touch. Your account manager will be able to discuss with you which issues of CBW are best to advertise in. Our marketing manager will be more than happy to look at your campaigns with you to make sure your adverts deliver the right message. We also have an in-house designer who can create adverts for you - please just ask your account manager.

We look forward to working with you.

Kind regards

Gemma Ireland Pell
